

Assisted Translations

Assisted translations

To make things easier for translators, Daniel Schneider had a brilliant idea: use online translating tools to translate LAMS labels. We have managed to put together a demo here and we will extend this shortly later on though so these assisted automatic translations can be used when bulk translating as well.

Have a look at this demo:

Assisted automatic translations work using Google Language AJAX API and translators can use them in already translated labels or in labels that have not yet being translated.
